MISSES MARTIN AND GORDON

With Lead of More Than Two Thousand.

There is always a tail before a storm; that in the outing contest came in the early part of the past week, but Thursday, Friday and yesterday amply made up for any apparent lack of enthusiasm, the number of votes polied yesterday running up to the large total of ill, M. This will in no way has a record, for the last week of the contest will be the hottest ever. The "XX" coupon will largely account for take prophecy, for the orders for extra papers of July 18th are alrendy coming in, and not coming in by ones and twos, but in multiples of 100. There are certain newsdealers' places of bust, with the part of the mount of the street to the other. The explanation, however, is simple: There are a few newsdealers on the street he has to pass along, and all he is doing is to dodge them. They only want to remind him not to forget their increased order for July 18th. They may be assured they won't be forgotten, for if necessary the edition on that day will be 100,000 papers. We are pleased to welcome into the pluck of the parties, sincerely wishing them success.

Many Notable Changes.

The votes published in last Sundays ilst for the Missess Afree and Lena Waller Sunday shown up very much better, and would have but for the unfortunate omission of 3,746 that were inadvertantly omitted. We have rectifted the mistake, however, this week, with the result that the young ladies mentioned have very considerably improved their position in the competition.

There are many notable changes in the order this week, but the Misses H. Mantin and S. Gordon still maintained the lead established least week and have managed very considerably to increase the gap. We hear, however, that several of the contestants are holding a large stoop of votes in certificates up their alseves, and the last week should prove very exciting. Many Notable Changes.
